STATEMENT OF JURISDICTION

This Court has jurisdiction over this appeal pursuant to 49 U.S.C. § 46610(a).

STATEMENT OF ISSUE

Whether Respondent, the Transportation Security Administration's ("TSA") decision to deny Petitioner authorization to be on the crew of a commercial flight flying in or near United States' airspace was arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, not based on substantial evidence, in violation of the Administrative Procedures Act or otherwise contrary to law.

Whether Respondent violated Petitioner's right to due process under the law by failing to provide notice of the charges and evidence against Petitioner and a meaningful opportunity to be heard.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner filed a request for administrative appeal with TSA on February 25, 2012 regarding the TSA's initial agency decision to remove Petitioner from the Master Crew List. On January 22, 2013, TSA released a final order denied the administrative appeal. Exhibit A.¹ The letter was mailed to Emirates airlines, and Petitioner did not receive it until March 13, 2013.

¹ Petitioner has pending a Motion to Supplement the Record. TSA has never provided Petitioner any documents or information regarding this proceeding, and filed the record with this Court under seal, and in camera. Petitioner does not know what was or was not included in the record, and includes information as Exhibits to provide the Court

STATEMENT OF FACTS

I. The Master Crew List

Petitioner is a commercial airline pilot for Emirates Airline and has been a pilot since 1993. See Exhibits B, G, H. All airline carriers are required to transmit to Customs and Border Patrol a master crew list of pilots and flight attendants before every flight. TSA reviews the data transmitted by the carrier and makes a determination of whether the crew may continue to operate or ride on the airplane. See 19 C.F.R. § 122.49(c). The Master Crew List operates similar to the Do-Not-Fly list. The TSA makes its determination of whether a pilot should stay on the master crew list by cross-checking the information with the Terrorist Screening Center (“TSC”), administered by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (“FBI”). TSC maintains and updates the federal government’s joint Terrorist Screening Database (“TSDB”). TSDB is the central database for terrorist threats and information and it is used to stop suspected terrorists or threats to the United States from boarding or flying a plane. See Terrorist Screening Center, Frequently Asked Questions, available at http://www.fbi.gov/about-us/nsb/tsc/tsc_faqs (last visited Nov. 1, 2013).

TSA and the TSC use the information collected via the Master Crew List to conduct “aviation security threat assessments.” After an assessment, “[i]ndividuals with background as it reviews the TSA’s decision. In light of the black box nature of the TSA’s approach, Petitioner asks the Court to give due consideration to the attached exhibits as part of the record.

who are cleared by TSA and/or U.S. law enforcement and intelligence agencies will be added to the Master Crew Lists submitted to TSA or authorized to be a crewmember or non-crewmember.” See Transportation Security Administration, Privacy Impact Assessment for Crew Vetting Program, July 28, 2004, available at http://www.dhs.gov/xlibrary/assets/privacy/privacy_pia_cvp.pdf (last visited Nov. 1, 2013).

The government’s own internal audits have recognized that TSC and TSA’s policies result in over-inclusion and significant error. For example, in 2007 a Government Accountability Office report determined that “the center rejects approximately 1 percent of all nominations.” Terrorism Watch List Screening, Opportunities Exist to Enhance Management Oversight, Reduce Vulnerabilities in Agency Screening Processes, and Expand Use of the List, Government Accountability Office (Oct. 2007), available at <http://www.gao.gov/assets/270/268006.pdf> (“GAO Report”) (last visited Nov. 1, 2013). More importantly, the Department of Justice found in 2009 that the FBI fails to modify outdated records, and in 35 percent of cases the FBI failed to remove bad or outdated records even though many should have been removed completely. The Federal Bureau of Investigation’s Terrorist Watchlist Practices, U.S. Department of Justice Office of Inspector General Audit Division (May 2009), available at <http://www.justice.gov/oig/reports/FBI/a0925/final.pdf> (last visited Nov. 1, 2013).

It is unclear what criteria TSA uses to determine when or not to remove a pilot or individual from the Master Crew List. TSA has not released that information. However, the ramifications of being removed from the Master Crew List mean that an individual may not fly a plane, be in the cockpit, or even be on the plane if the plane will fly to the United States or cross United States airspace on the way to another destination. Advance Electronic Transmission of Passenger and Crew Member Manifests for Commercial Aircraft and Vessels, 72 Fed. Reg. 48320, n.8 (Aug. 23, 2007).

II. Redress

Redress of a decision to remove an individual from the Master Crew List is available, though extremely limited. In the event that some piece of information is outdated and impacts negatively on the security assessment of an individual, that individual has the ability to seek an adjustment to the adjudication decision and correction of the information through a redress process. Privacy Impact Assessment for Crew Vetting Program, Transportation Security Administration, (July 28, 2004) available at http://www.dhs.gov/xlibrary/assets/privacy/privacy_pia_cvp.pdf (last visited Nov. 1, 2013). Alternatively, an affected individual may appeal the decision to the TSA.

III. Petitioner's Removal From the Master Crew List

Petitioner has been a licensed pilot for 20 years, flying for multiple airlines around the world. He currently is a pilot for Emirates Airlines. (Exhibit B). He lives with his family in Dubai, including his wife and two small children. Exhibit C. Petitioner first learned that he was under investigation when he was visited by a member of the Royal Mounted Police in Canada, who visited at the behest of the American government. Petitioner was subsequently vetted by four countries: Australia, Canada, Turkey, and the United States. All four countries are allied with the United States, and presumably share intelligence information. See, e.g., Richard McGregor, Global Insight: US spying risks clouding 'five eyes' vision, FinancialTimes.com (June 28, 2013), available at <http://www.ft.com/cms/s/0/d0873f38-d1c5-11e2-9336-00144feab7de.html#axzz2iVIRNqEX> (last visited Nov. 1, 2013); see also Sebnem Arsu, U.S. Sharing Intelligence With Turkey, NewYorkTimes.com (Nov. 15, 2007), available at http://www.nytimes.com/2007/11/15/world/europe/15turkey.html?_r=0 (last visited Nov. 1, 2013).

After review by each country, Australia, Canada, and Turkey approved Petitioner to serve on their respective Master Crew Lists, and Petitioner continues to fly to those countries (to the extent that the flight plan does not cross United States airspace). See Australia Letter Exhibit D. Petitioner remains unable to fly or board a plane to the United States, and this has impacted his employment because Emirates airlines requires its pilots to have the unrestricted ability to fly anywhere in the world. Petitioner is shamed, and embarrassed by the unfounded situation, and has been stigmatized his inability to work certain routes. Petitioner has been cleared by three United States allies and has no idea why the United States refuses to return him to the Master Crew List. Petitioner filed an appeal with TSA to challenge the TSA's decision to remove him from the Master Crew List. Exhibit E. TSA denied the appeal with a one-page order that divulged no information and offered no reason for the denial. See Exhibit A. The letter also refused to admit or deny whether Petitioner has been removed from the Master Client List. Id. Petitioner has been advised that he is no longer on the Master Crew List by his employer.

SUMMARY OF THE ARGUMENT

Petitioner is a pilot for Emirates Airlines. He has been removed from the TSA's Master Crew List without notice, or an opportunity for comment or to defend himself. The government's actions fail the Administrative Procedure Act standard requiring hearing and notice prior to a government action to deprive a protected interest. Here, TSA's action were arbitrary and capricious because TSA offered no rational connection between whatever secret facts it may or may not have and its decision. Petitioner has no meaningful opportunity to participate in the redress process so vital to his career. Internal government audits of the Do-Not-Fly and Master Crew Lists have shown that there are significant errors on the list. By operating completely in secret, TSA failed to comply with the statutory requirement to ensure a fair process for individuals who believe they have been prohibited from entering an aircraft because they were wrongly identified as a threat. Petitioner has been cleared by the governments of Canada, Turkey, and Australia to fly to their countries. Only the United States refuses to allow him to fly, and provides no support for its decision. The action is an abuse of discretion, and is arbitrary and capricious.

Although Petitioner is not a United States citizen, he is owed due process due to his substantial connections with the United States. The government deprived him of his protected interests in travel and employment by removing him from the Master Crew List. Additionally, due process requires notice and hearing before government action that harms a protected interest. Petitioner only seeks notice and an opportunity to contest and redress TSA's decision in an open and fair environment. He has been unable to confront and respond to the TSA's allegations, and simply wants to be able to work. Emirates Airlines requires that its pilots be free to fly anywhere in the world. TSA's actions are harming Petitioner's ability to travel and work, both protected interests. Petitioner seeks a fair chance to defend himself from shadow allegations.

ARGUMENT

I. The Government's Secret Actions Fail The Administrative Procedure Act By Acting Without Hearing Or Notice and Are Arbitrary and Capricious

The Administrative Procedure Act ("APA") provides protection against arbitrary and capricious acts by federal agencies. 5 U.S.C. § 706. Prior to taking an action that would negatively impact an individual the government must inform an impacted individual, and provide opportunity for comment. The Government failed to afford Petitioner notice and ability to comment prior to removal from the Master Crew List, and its decision is arbitrary and capricious and not based on substantial evidence.

Section 706(2)(A) of the APA requires a reviewing court to set aside agency action if the action is arbitrary, capricious, or an abuse of discretion. 5 U.S.C. § 706(2)(A). To avoid a violation of the APA, TSA must have "offered an explanation for its decision that runs counter to the evidence before the agency, or is so implausible that it could not be ascribed to a difference in view or the product of agency expertise." Motor Vehicle Mfrs. Ass'n of U.S. v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 463 U.S. 29, 43 (1983). To be upheld, an agency must "articulate a satisfactory explanation for its action including a ‘rational connection between the facts found and the choice made.’” Id. at 43.

TSA fails to comply with the APA when it issues regulations without standards. The Supreme Court recently reemphasized this point in Christopher v. SmithKline Beecham Corp., 133 S. Ct. 1217, 183 L. Ed. 2d 153, 170 (2012), holding that an agency is obliged to “provide regulated parties fair warning of the conduct [a regulation] prohibits or requires.” To determine whether an agency complied with this requirement, the Court undertakes a “searching and careful” review. Marsh v. Or. Natural Res. Council, 490 U.S. 360, 378 (1989).

Two arguments support Petitioner’s claim that the TSA’s decisions and process are arbitrary and capricious. First, TSA failed to provide Petitioner with notice of its action removing Petitioner from the Master Crew List and TSA has offered no rational connection between secret facts and its decision establish that it did not act arbitrarily, capriciously, and in an abuse of discretion.

Second, TSA’s “appeal” process also violates the APA. Rather than provide a basis for its decision and allow Petitioner to participate in the appeal, TSA relied upon a hidden set of facts and decision-making procedures. It continued to keep these facts secret in this proceeding. TSA did not provide any information about its decision-making criteria relevant to appealing a Master Crew List decision. Petitioner therefore has no opportunity to properly contest TSA’s allegations as he had no idea what TSA's decision standards may be. Further, Petitioner had no ability to contest a specific allegation that Petitioner violated the any rules, as the TSA has not revealed any facts.

TSA's initial decision processes and redress procedure are black boxes. Petitioner had no meaningful opportunity to participate in the redress process so vital to his life, livelihood, and career. And TSA has not established on the record that its decision was not arbitrary and capricious and was based on substantial evidence.

At the end of the process, the TSA provided a one-page letter with a one-paragraph denial. Exhibit A. TSA did not comply with the requirement to ensure a "fair process for individuals who believe they have been delayed or prohibited from boarding a commercial aircraft because they were wrongly identified as a threat under the regimes utilized by the Transportation Security Administration." 49 U.S.C. § 44926(a). The significant amount of errors found in TSA's list by the FBI's report, see supra, combined with the lack of notice or realistic remedy, support the argument that TSA's process is unfair and a violation of the APA. Petitioner's only remedy now is for this Court to hold that the star chamber decision by the TSA was arbitrary, capricious, and an abuse of discretion based on the sealed record before the Court.

II. Petitioner Is Owed Due Process Due To His Substantial Connections With The United States.

Petitioner is not a citizen of the United States. He is a citizen of Canada and Turkey. See Exhibit F. He is also a resident in the United Kingdom. This does not mean he deserves no due process. Rather, the Constitution protects non-citizens who have substantial connections with the United States. The Supreme Court has ruled that aliens that establish “substantial connections” within the United States may be accorded protection under the Constitution. See United States v. Verdugo-Urquidez, 494 U.S. 259, 270 (U.S. 1990). Petitioner has friends in the United States, his salary is pegged to the United States dollar, his pension is based in the United States financial markets, and he has repeatedly travelled for work and pleasure to the United States. Additionally, he flies American citizens on Emirates flights all over the world, and has worked closely with American citizens in the cockpits of some of the largest planes in the world, including Boeing’s new 777. See Exhibit G, H.

III. The United States Violated The Fifth Amendment’s Guarantee Of Due Process When It Deprived Petitioner Of His Protected Interests.

Petitioner has been harmed by the government’s action depriving him of the protected interests of travel and employment. The test for whether the procedures enacted by TSA satisfy due process is found under Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319, 334-335 (1976). The Court must weigh three factors: (1) the private interest that will be affected by the official action; (2) the risk of an erroneous deprivation of interest through the procedures used, and the probable value, if any, of additional or substitute procedural safeguards; and (3) the Government's interest, including the function involved and the fiscal and administrative burdens that additional or substitute procedural requirements would entail. Id.

Petitioner meets the first factor because he has a variety of significant private interests affected by the TSA's action. Petitioner's liberty interest in working and travel are all significantly burdened by the government's action. First, by removing Petitioner from the Master Crew List the government has substantially impacted Petitioner's ability to work and travel. See Greene v. McElroy, 360 U.S. 474, 492 (U.S. 1959) ("the right to hold specific private employment and to follow a chosen profession free from unreasonable governmental interference comes within the "liberty" and "property" concepts of the Fifth Amendment."). Petitioner flies large commercial planes for a living. These aircraft are precisely designed and developed to travel internationally due to their size and sophistication. Petitioner's employer requires that its pilots be allowed to fly anywhere in the world. The United States has the largest economy in the world, and is a top travel destination for both business and personal travelers. Petitioner is restricted from flying across United States airspace due to a secret proceeding. Petitioner has had to turn down job opportunities due to this restriction. His liberty interest in working is restricted.

Similarly, Petitioner is unable to board a plane back to his native Canada to spend time with family and friends. Nearly every Canadian flight crosses a portion of the United States' airspace. The Supreme Court has determined that travel is a protected liberty requiring due process before it is stripped. Kent v. Dulles, 357 U.S. 116, 125 (U.S. 1958) ("the right to travel is a part of the "liberty" of which the citizen cannot be deprived without due process of law under the Fifth Amendment."). The Supreme Court has specifically noted that "travel abroad, like travel within the country, may be necessary for a livelihood." Id., at 126-125. Similarly, the Supreme Court held that it is clear that international travel is protected under due process. Haig v. Agee, 453 U.S. 280, 307 (U.S. 1981) (noting that international travel is an aspect of the liberty protected by the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment that can be regulated, but within bounds of due process).

The fact that Petitioner can fly to some countries but not the United States does not mitigate the fact that Petitioner may not enter American airspace due to TSA's secret decision. Id. at 485. Petitioner would happily bring his kids to Disney World if he was able. A restriction from international travel solely to or over the United States is still a violation of Petitioner's interest in international travel. For example, the a court has previously held that a restriction limiting one-direction travel was a deprivation of liberty in travel. Agee v. Baker, 753 F. Supp. 373, 386 (D.D.C. 2010).

TSA's action has burdened Petitioner's liberty interest in travel without due process. Without notice, Petitioner was removed from the Master Crew List, thus eliminating any ability to travel to or through the United States. Sister courts have determined that the ability to fly to and from the United States, and over United States airspace, is integral to participating in a global economy. Eunique v. Powell, 302 F.3d 971, 978 (9th Cir. 2002) ("McKeown, J., concurring). It is difficult to imagine a more significant impact on the liberty interest in travel than to remove the possibility of an international pilot to work. Petitioner flies all over the world, see Pilot Log, Exhibit H, and deserves the ability to address any allegations in a meaningful review of the TSA's decision.

IV. Notice and a Hearing Are Required Under The Fifth Amendment

As discussed above, due process is required before TSA acts and harms Petitioner's interests. The next step is to determine "what process is due." Fed. Deposit Ins. Corp. v. Mallen, 486 U.S. 230, 240 (1988). Most important, and all Petitioner seeks, is notice of the action and an opportunity to contest TSA's decision outside of a secret appeal and a one-page denial. Currently, there is one TSA redress system. It provides no notice of the reasons why Petitioner was removed from the Master Crew List, nor does it provide Petitioner an opportunity to assert why those reasons are invalid.

Due process must “set forth the alleged misconduct with particularity.” In re Gault, 387 U.S. 1, 22 (1967). Notice is essential to provide the ability to challenge a contemplated action. See Vitek v. Jones, U.S. 445 U.S. 480, 496 (1980). Simply providing a one-page governmental denial without adequate reasoning is inadequate. See Southeastern Mich. Gas Co. v. FERC, 133 F.3d 34, 42 (D.C. Cir. 1998) (finding that failure to explain a decision was error).

Petitioner received no notice at all from TSA. The only documentation he received was an appeal denial letter that provided no information or reason for the appeal beyond the fact that the appeal was denied. There was no explanation as to the decision, what documents were reviewed, or even whether or not Petitioner is actually removed from the Master Crew List. Of course, even though TSA refuses to confirm or deny, it is evident that Petitioner was removed from the Master Crew List; he can no longer fly across United States airspace. TSA refuses to provide any specifics of the allegations about Petitioner, rendering Petitioner unable to respond, even if there was a proper redress procedure available. The lack of specifics violates the basic notice requirement, and to the extent that no information is shared, TSA fails to allege any misconduct.

TSA is likely to argue that its process is sufficient because Petitioner is a non-citizen, citing Jifry v. F.A.A., 370 F.3d 1174 (D.C. Cir. 2004). That case is easily distinguishable. Jifry involved Saudi pilots with no substantial connections to the United States. The Saudi pilots sought to challenge an FAA decision to revoke FAA airman certificates, and for authority to fly foreign aircraft outside of the United States. Petitioner here has more substantial connections, and is a citizen of one of America's closest allies, and our neighbor to the North. See Exhibit F. Additionally, Petitioner has been banned from flying or even being on board a plane in United States airspace, a much more significant revocation of rights than at issue in Jifry.

Here, TSA has failed to provide Petitioner any meaningful opportunity to be heard. One of the basic underpinnings of due process is the ability to confront and respond to the government's allegations. Greene v. McElroy, 360 U.S. 474, 496 (1959). Petitioner must have the ability to prove or to respond to the facts supporting the deprivation. Conn. Dep't of Pub. Safety v. Doe, 538 U.S. 1, 7 (2003).

There was no opportunity for Petitioner to be heard throughout the entire process. In fact, Petitioner was offered no idea of the basis of the government's action, whether there was a basis at all, or why he was targeted. TSA and its counsel filed whatever record exists under seal in this Court, and Petitioner is left to shadow box, attempting to defend against the unknown. It is not uncommon for the Supreme Court to require live hearings in a variety of cases where a protected interest is deprived. For example, school suspension (Goldberg v. Kelly, 397 U.S. 254, 269 (1970)) or social security payments (Califano v. Yamasaki, 442 U.S. 682, 697 (1979)). Petitioner simply seeks the same ability to argue his case as offered to retirees and students.

To be clear, Petitioner is not arguing that the Government may not act in the interest of national security. Instead, Petitioner argues that there are safeguards used in a variety of proceedings to protect confidential information while allowing an accused to defend himself. For example, protective orders or filing documents under seal. Here, TSA claims that telling an individual whether or not he is removed from the Master Crew List would be damaging. TSA's argument is spurious because that information is de facto publicly shared the moment that the government refuses to allow Petitioner to fly to the United States. TSA should drop the charade. If there is substantial evidence supporting TSA's decision, then the decision will be upheld. However, if there is a rational possibility that the information is incorrect, Petitioner must have the ability to defend himself because his liberty interests have been severely curtailed.

The second Matthews factor takes this into consideration. Specifically, the Court weighs whether there was a risk of error under the current hearing process, and the probative value of additional safeguards. Matthews, 424 U.S. at 335. Here, there was no notice or opportunity to be heard, so there was a significant risk of error. There is no meaningful opportunity to clear up errors. There have been significant reports concerning errors in the Do-Not-Fly list and other government terrorism watchlists. See GAO Report. Government audits have reinforced this point by pointing out that the TSDB is not updated when necessary. Id. Allowing a meaningful opportunity for some sort of due process would help to eliminate a significant portion of the accidental additions to the Master Crew List.

The third Matthews factor is “the Government's interest, including the function involved and the fiscal and administrative burdens that the additional or substitute procedural requirement would entail.” Matthews, 424 U.S. at 335. Petitioner agrees that the Government has an interest in protecting national security. The policy the TSA has undertaken, however, would not be negatively impacted by allowing a due process hearing as to removal from the Master Crew List. First, although TSA refuses to acknowledge whether or not Petitioner was removed from the Master Crew List, it is clear that Petitioner has been removed because he is unable to fly to or over the United States. Additionally, Petitioner found out the information through his employer. Once Petitioner was disallowed from flying to the United States, he was given de facto notice that he was on law enforcement's radar. Thus, TSA's likely argument that its procedure protects law enforcement investigations does not hold water.

While national security is important, it is not without limits. This court, and the Supreme Court, have required notice in other circumstances where the government attempted to deprive an individual's liberty interest. See Nat'l Council of Resistance of Iran v. U.S. Dep't of State, 251 F.3d 192, 209 (D.C. Cir. 2001); Hamdi v. Rumsfeld, 542 U.S. 507, 536 (2004) (plurality opinion). Allowing a hearing did not negatively impact national security. To the contrary, allowing a hearing where Petitioner could refute allegations against him would free up resources for TSA and other government agencies to use to watch and protect the United States against true enemies. It would also send a signal that the government is not abusing its powers behind closed doors; welcome news given the government's recent track record of secret surveillance without oversight.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above, Petitioner prays this Court vacate the TSA decision, or reverse and remand with an order to provide a meaningful live hearing, with notice of allegations, at which Petitioner may defend his interest in his livelihood.

Respectfully submitted,

STATUTORY ADDENDUM

5 U.S.C. § 706: Scope of Review(2)(a)

To the extent necessary to decision and when presented, the reviewing court shall decide all relevant questions of law, interpret constitutional and statutory provisions, and determine the meaning or applicability of the terms of an agency action. The reviewing court shall--

- (1) compel agency action unlawfully withheld or unreasonably delayed; and
- (2) hold unlawful and set aside agency action, findings, and conclusions found to be--

- (A) arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law;

- (B) contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity;

- (C) in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of statutory right;

- (D) without observance of procedure required by law;

- (E) unsupported by substantial evidence in a case subject to sections 556 and 557 of this title [5 USCS §§ 556 and 557] or otherwise reviewed on the record of an agency hearing provided by statute; or

- (F) unwarranted by the facts to the extent that the facts are subject to trial de novo by the reviewing court.

49 U.S.C. § 46110: Judicial Review(a) Filing and Venue.

Except for an order related to a foreign air carrier subject to disapproval by the President under section 41307 or 41509(f) of this title [49 USCS § 41307 or 41509(f)], a person disclosing a substantial interest in an order issued by the Secretary of Transportation (or the Under Secretary of Transportation for Security with respect to security duties and powers designated to be carried out by the Under Secretary or the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration with respect to aviation duties and powers designated to be carried out by the Administrator) in whole or in part under this part [49 USCS §§ 40101 et seq.], part B [49 USCS §§ 47101 et seq.], or subsection (l) or (s) of section 114 [49 USCS § 114] may apply for review of the order by filing a petition for review in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit or in the court of appeals of the United States for the circuit in which the person resides or has its principal place of business. The petition must be filed not later than 60 days after the order is issued. The court may allow the petition to be filed after the 60th day only if there are reasonable grounds for not filing by the 60th day.

49 U.S.C. § 44926: Appeal and redress process for passengers wrongfully delayed or prohibited from board a flight(a) In general.

The Secretary of Homeland Security shall establish a timely and fair process for individuals who believe they have been delayed or prohibited from boarding a commercial aircraft because they were wrongly identified as a threat under the regimes utilized by the Transportation Security Administration, United States Customs and Border Protection, or any other office or component of the Department of Homeland Security.

19 C.F.R. § 122.49(c): Master crew member list and master non-crew member list requirement for commercial aircraft arriving in, departing from, continuing within, and overflying the United States

(a) General requirement. Air carriers subject to the provisions of § 122.49b and § 122.75b, with respect to the flights covered in those sections, must electronically transmit to Customs and Border Protection (CBP), by means of an electronic data interchange system approved by CBP, a master crew member list and a master non-crew member list containing the information set forth in paragraph (c) of this section covering, respectively, all crew members and non-crew members operating and servicing its flights. The initial transmission of a list must be made at least two days in advance of any flight a crew member or non-crew member on the list will be operating, serving on, or traveling on and must contain the information set forth in paragraph (c) of this section. After review of the master crew list and the master non-crew list by TSA, TSA will advise the carrier of any crew members or non-crew members that must be removed from the list. Only those persons on the TSA-approved master crew and master non-crew lists will be permitted to operate, serve on, or travel on flights covered by this section. Until a carrier becomes a participant in the CBP-approved electronic interchange system, it must submit the required information in a format provided by TSA.

(b) Changes to master lists. After the initial transmission of the master crew member and non-crew member lists to CBP, the carrier is obligated to update the lists as necessary. To add a name to either list, along with the required information set forth in paragraph (c) of this section, or to add or change information relative to a name already submitted, the carrier must transmit the information to CBP at least 24 hours in advance of any flight the added or subject crew member or non-crew member will be operating, serving on, or traveling on. A carrier must submit deletions from the lists as expeditiously as possible.

(c) Master list information. The electronic master crew lists required under paragraph (a) of this section must contain the following information with respect to each crew member or non-crew member that operates, serves on, or travels on a carrier's flights that are covered by this section except that the information specified in paragraphs (c)(4), (5), (6), (7), and (10) of this section must be included on the manifest only on or after October 4, 2005:

- (1) Full name (last, first, and, if available, middle);
- (2) Gender;
- (3) Date of birth;
- (4) Place of birth (city, state -- if applicable, and country);
- (5) Citizenship;
- (6) Country of residence;
- (7) Address of permanent residence;
- (8) Passport number, if passport required;
- (9) Passport country of issuance, if passport required;
- (10) Passport expiration date, if passport required;
- (11) Pilot certificate number and country of issuance, if applicable;
- (12) Status onboard the aircraft.

(d) Exception. The master crew member and non-crew member list requirements of this section do not apply to aircraft chartered by the U.S. Department of Defense.

(e) Superseding amendments issued by TSA. One or more of the requirements of this section may be superseded by specific provisions of, amendments to, or alternative procedures authorized by TSA for compliance with an aviation security program, emergency amendment, or security directive issued by the TSA to an air carrier subject to the provisions of 49 CFR part 1544, 1546, or 1550. The amendments will have superseding effect only for the air carrier to which issued and only for the period of time specified in the amendment.

Dear Mr. Ege:

The Transportation Security Administration (TSA) has received and reviewed your request for administrative appeal dated February 25, 2012 of the initial agency decision.

Based on our review of available information, including the information you provided, I am upholding the initial agency decision that there are no changes or corrections warranted at this time.

This letter constitutes TSA's final agency decision, which is reviewable by a United States Court of Appeals under 49 U.S.C. § 46110.

Sincerely yours,

Exhibit E

25 February 2012

To TSA,

Office of Transportation Security Administration

Attention: Ms. Laura Lynch

601 South 12th Street, TSA-901

Arlington, VA 20598-6901

Redress Control Number: 2051047

I would like to submit an appeal disputing the initial decision. I received the letter informing me dated February 06, 2012 on February 21, 2012.

I have been flying Boeing and other US made aircraft since 1993, type rated on B737, B757, B767, and B777

Currently I hold first officer, pilot position with Emirates Airlines of Dubai, UAE since May 2006.

I fly with American pilots and American citizens as a passenger outside the United States. I have no restricted travel anywhere else in the world other than US.

My salary is pegged to the US dollar. My pension from Emirates Airline is invested in US money market. I can count numerous things where I cannot isolate my life from United States.

It is very important for my aviation career to have this clearance. United States is the only country has this restriction.

It is an employment requirement as I am an Airline Pilot. Also when I retire from Emirates Airlines and go back to my home country Canada, I could not hold any flying job without this clearance.

I cannot express enough how adversely this status affects me.

Safe flying operation is my livelihood. And I am no threat to United States. I have strong reason to believe that false accusations regarding my activities or beliefs in the past have resulted in my being placed on a U.S. government no-fly list. I am innocent of any such actions and am prepared to present evidence of my good standing with other countries such as Turkey Australia and, importantly, Canada, which I believe was the original source of this libelous information to my great detriment.

Like all law-abiding citizens, I understand and support the actions of the U.S. government to protect its citizenry. Nevertheless, as you are also aware, there have been many instances of derogatory information being entered into government databases which have disadvantaged innocent individuals such as myself. I believe I have a compelling case to overturn a no-fly entry against myself and request an opportunity to present this information in an orderly fashion in an attempt to end this injustice.

Best Regards,

Mehmet Ege
